Gear up for growth

Suddenly, the world at large had both the opportunity and the urgent need to find a new way forward. In the wake of many business struggles and economic shutdowns, new possibilities are rising up.

That means now is the time to start the new year strong and get your business geared up for a successful 2021.

Step 1: Start With an Agile Strategy
Here’s how you can build a robust and agile strategy for 2021:

Understand Your Market

A good plan starts with a solid understanding of your market. You can’t have a plan without knowing who and what you’re planning for.

Since the pandemic, your existing markets may have gone through major changes. People may have changed their shopping habits or developed new pain points, for instance. Or perhaps your 2021 plan involves extending your business to new markets.

Either way, you’ll need to find out what you’re diving into before you, well, dive in.

“Thinking about the uncertainty of 2020 (and knowing 2021 may bring the same turmoil), establish your plan B and C. You may need to quickly pivot, so consider best and worst case scenarios and what it’ll take to thrive.”

*McKinsey, 2020

93% of business units that embraced agility in 2020 had better or significantly better customer satisfaction rates. [1]

93% of agile business units saw better or significantly better operational performance compared to non-agile units. [1]

76% of agile units said they saw better or significantly better employee engagement than non-agile units. [1]

In other words, your plan should help you focus on your overall goals, budget, and initiatives for the year. Build a robust and practical 2021 action plan based on these goals to help you zero in on the decisions that will benefit your business the most.

And remember: In a post-COVID world, businesses need to take adaptability into account more than ever to ensure that their strategy can remain agile and be navigated best even through unpredictable circumstances:

Every new year is an irresistible opportunity to put a new targeted strategy into action. Having a clear plan outlined gives you a better sense of direction, so you never lose sight of what’s important. And it gives you extra incentive to track your progress along the way and maintain smart priorities.

2021 Trends

When crafting your agile strategy for 2021, there are a few industry trends you should consider:

Digital Product Portfolio
Digital products and services can make way for agile business models while enhancing customer relationships. In fact, 30% of Global 2000 companies will likely have a significant digital product portfolio by the end of 2021. (2)

Omnichannel Experiences
The pandemic has redefined the role of physical stores, making it crucial for businesses to be accessible through multiple channels. Businesses have adapted their strategy to accommodate omnichannel experiences through contactless curbside pickup, virtual appointments, virtual wait line systems, and more. (3)

Anywhere Operations
An “anywhere” operations model will help businesses adapt more seamlessly to the current landscape. This allows teams, employers, and customers to operate in physically remote environments with minimal hiccups. (4)

Step 2: Build a Strong Brand
Brand consistency is critical for every business, regardless of size, customer, or location. The power and professionalism of your social media presence, website, and design elements are essential in building a loyal customer base.

Proper branding can impress potential customers and have a huge impact on your goals:

- Consistency communicates to your customers that your brand is dependable. The more recognizable your brand is, the more trustworthy it is. Every time you utilize the same branding elements, you’re delivering on your brand promise.

- However, having a strong brand isn’t just about protecting your bottom line. Regardless of your branding strategy, every blog post, every tweet, and every interaction serves as a form of publicity for your business. In short, branding is marketing.

- With consistent and catchy brand colors, fonts, and messaging, your customer will get to know you better both online and off, and you’ll kick off 2021 with a bang. Start with the perfect logo that reflects your brand identity. Then create a brand style guide to use throughout your brand presence online.

The right colors can boost brand recognition by up to 80%.

59% of consumers prefer to buy new products from familiar and trusted brands.

It takes just 10 seconds to leave an impression on consumers.

“Establishing a strong brand requires consistency. Your design and delivery should speak the same symmetrical language as the portfolios and adverts that you showcase. Having your own unique style in your conversations, descriptions, designs, and delivery of your services will help ensure long-term and loyal customers.”

Logo Design

Your target customer probably sees hundreds of logos every day. You need a logo that cuts through the noise, grabs their attention, and steers them to your business. A great logo achieves all of this with a simple, memorable, and timeless design.

To get inspired, take a look at some of the logos created by Fiverr sellers, and feel free to contact them directly.

Geometric – use traditional shapes in unexpected ways

Lowercase Logos – say more with less

Overlapping Elements – connect the dots and turn heads

Retro Design – put some old school magic into your branding

Intricate Details – use a richer and more artistic aesthetic

Black & White – stay classy and keep it simple

Sometimes, it can be hard to picture what logo style would work for your business, so it’s easier when you can see the results upfront. We’ve made that possible with the Fiverr Logo Maker. The AI-powered tool learns about your business, industry, and the elements you want to include in your logo.

Then, it displays beautiful logo designs to choose from based on hand-made designs from Fiverr designers. These designs will also have different variations, so you have the freedom to select something that truly fits your brand.
Brand Style Guides

A brand style guide is your key to consistency. It has all of the elements that give your company a distinct look, feel, and personality. These elements include your logo, fonts, colors, tone, and design guidelines.

Your brand style guide also establishes standards and rules for your marketing efforts. It makes your content more recognizable, it increases your brand value, and it makes it easier to communicate your values to external partners.

Once you define your brand style guide, apply it to social media accounts, website, and mobile designs.

Fiverr’s Branding experts can help you create a custom brand style guide that sets you apart from the competition this year.

Social Media Design

Don’t settle for just a few likes on social media — create a profile that demands attention. On most social media platforms, you can customize your profile to reflect who you are and, most importantly, ensure it’s consistent with the rest of your branding assets. Not sure what assets you need? Find these social media design specialists on Fiverr.com for some creative ways to build consistency across your accounts.

Fiverr’s Web & Mobile Designers can help you effortlessly integrate your new designs.

Web & Mobile Design

With more business taking place online due to COVID-19, your digital storefront is more important than ever in 2021.

Your website is your display window. It’s ground zero for purchases, and it’s the place your customers will visit to learn more about what you do or sell. Make it appealing, beautiful, and, of course, consistent with your brand’s style and character. Fiverr’s Web & Mobile Designers can help you effortlessly integrate your new designs.
As you start the process of building a strong brand, make sure you give your freelancers guidelines that incorporate this year’s hottest trends:

Muted Colors

Color trends have taken a sharp turn from bright and bold to soft and muted. Brands are opting for light, pastel colors that give off a safe and soothing vibe. [6]

Adaptable Logos

With a digital shift and an omnichannel approach, brands are prioritizing adaptability in their logo designs. It’s become a necessity to have different variations of the same logo (with changes in size, color, or complexity) depending on where it’ll be used. [7]

Accessible Designs

In an effort to maintain Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) compliance, brands are also keeping accessibility in mind when designing brand assets. Font size and weight, color combinations, accessible controls, and content structure all play a critical role in making websites and designs more accessible. [6]

Minimalism

Minimalism continues to rule in the branding and design industry. Brands are making a steady shift toward simple and classic aesthetics, removing clutter and ensuring timelessness. [7]

Step 3: Complete Your Digital Transformation
We’re deep into the digital era. Customers prefer to buy anything they can online, and they have a very high standard of service. Every part of their experience is important, from how long it takes a page to load to how quickly their items can be shipped.

On top of that, COVID-19 and social distancing mandates have impacted how business is done on a massive scale — with changes continuing into 2021 and beyond. Businesses have had to adapt, and having a strong e-commerce platform or website is now more important than ever. Still not convinced? Take a look at these figures:

- By mid-April 2020, U.S. retailers already saw a 68% year-over-year increase in online revenue. (8)
- Online retail orders had increased by 146% around the same time. (9)
- U.S. consumers spent $21.7 billion online during the first 10 days of the holiday shopping season — a 21% increase year-over-year. (2)
- 51% of consumers are buying more online and visiting stores less. (3)
- The pandemic has accelerated the shift to e-commerce by five years. (9)

“['The first step to make an e-commerce business work well is ensuring that you have done as much research as possible about your product and your target audience. Offering an attractive, relevant, and convenient product to your audience creates a ton of sales opportunities on a regular basis.”

The beginning of the year is a great time to optimize your online shopping experience or launch a digital storefront.

In addition to meeting customer expectations, there are plenty of benefits for you, too. A well-designed online store can boost your sales and turn one-time customers into repeat shoppers. A strong presence in the most popular marketplaces can expose your brand to millions of potential new customers.

To get started, you have two options to consider for selling your products and services online — you can sell on your own website (and there are several platforms to help you), or you can sell on the major marketplaces. Choose your favorite option or enjoy the best of both worlds.

Once you’ve made your decision, there are a few necessary steps to ensure you’re getting the most out of your e-commerce strategy:

Create your Website

If your business primarily operated offline, making a digital transition can be a little daunting. The good news is: If you don’t have a website yet, Fiverr now has a one-stop-shop to help you find the right web developer for you in minutes. Just answer a few questions, and get matched with the right web developer in minutes.
Develop your E-commerce

If you decide to sell your products on your own website, you need to choose the e-commerce platform that works best for your business. There are several options available, but three stand out from the pack:

Shopify: A Shopify storefront is easy to set up, and there are several visually appealing templates. Shopify integrates with other applications, like Facebook Shop, Google Shopping, and Instagram. Also, based on your plan, Shopify storefronts come stacked with SEO features and marketing tools.

Magento: Magento is also an open-source e-commerce platform. It’s mobile and SEO-friendly, has fast load times, and includes lots of customization options. Magento also provides currency and language support.

WooCommerce: WooCommerce is an open-source e-commerce plugin for WordPress. It’s popular because it’s easy to install, and many of the themes are free. There are several customizations to create a professional store that’s consistent with your brand style guide.

Create Product Content

Whether you are launching an e-commerce store or listing on a marketplace, you need exceptional, eye-catching photos of your products, and you need enticing descriptions that communicate your products’ value.

- 44% of shoppers consider relevant search results as the most important factor when they browse through products. (17) Product descriptions optimized with accurate keywords can make this happen.
- For 67% of consumers, the quality of a product photo is highly important to help them decide on a purchase. (18)
- 25% of shoppers want to be able to zoom in on product photos. (19)
- 17% of shoppers want to view the product from alternate angles. (17)

Product Descriptions

These descriptions are your chance to guide your buyers toward making a purchase. Tell them everything they need to know about the product, including what it is, what it does, and who it’s for. And remember to keep keywords in mind, so people looking for your products can actually find them.

Fiverr’s Product Description writers can help you capture the essence of every item.

Don’t just tell them. Show them. Include high-quality product photos and visuals to help each item stand out. And when adding photos to your product listings, consider including images showcasing alternate angles, super-zoom, and 360-degree views.

Hire Fiverr’s Product Photography freelancers to capture eye-catching and enticing product photos.

List your product on a Marketplace

Selling your products on the world’s biggest marketplaces can make it easier for customers to find you. Like the e-commerce platforms, there are a lot of online marketplaces, but there are three heavyweights that top the list:

Amazon: Selling on Amazon exposes your brand to hundreds of millions of potential customers. There are low start-up costs to list your products there, and the site is one of the most trustworthy marketplaces on the web. 89% of buyers are more likely to buy from Amazon than other sites. [40]

Etsy: is geared toward handcrafted goods. It’s ideal for businesses who want an individualized storefront but without the hard work of building it themselves. Etsy storefronts can be easily customized, and they have full e-commerce capabilities.

eBay: is a veteran marketplace that actually has a lot of benefits beyond the site itself. It can help you build your brand by driving traffic to your website, and it helps build customer trust. eBay is also great for mobile shopping, which is more important than ever.

Use Fiverr’s Product Descriptions & Product Photography experts to make sure your products are listed on the platform that’s right for your business goals.

Supply Chain Management

Have you decided on suppliers and vendors? Are you prepared to manage and fulfill online orders? Have you set up an inventory management process?

All of this will decide the success or failure of your online business. So it’s crucial that you get expert help, especially at the initial stages of your digital transition. Find the best supply chain management services, from procurement and vendor management to logistics management.

2021 Trends

As you start building your digital storefront, be sure to keep these 2021 trends in mind:

Voice Shopping
Improvements in voice search technology have made it easier for people to shop online using just their voice. Online businesses are now optimizing their websites and listings to accommodate voice shopping to stay ahead of the digital curve. (11)

Visual Commerce
Since many shoppers are avoiding the stores, they need an online experience that feels just like shopping in a physical store. Visuals continue to be a hot trend as they provide shoppers with an accurate idea of what your product looks like or what kind of experience they can get from it. Visual commerce tools like 360-degree images, augmented reality, visual search, and user-generated content will continue to take center stage this year. (12)

Free Listings on Google Shopping
In April 2020, Google made it free to get listed on Google Shopping. (13) While paid listings still show up prominently under this section, businesses can now sell on Google without any additional fees. So 2021 will see more businesses taking advantage of this function.

Step 4: Boost Your Online Content
With face-to-face meetings and in-store visits close to impossible these days, online content has become the number one channel to communicate and connect with your audience. So give every aspect of your online content a boost — from website copy and product descriptions to blog posts and videos.

Written Content

Written content helps you communicate with your audience and with search engines and can even determine how high you show up in the SERP (Search Engine Results Page) for relevant searches.

Blog posts, website copy, landing page copy, guest posts, and email copy are all types of written content, and they’re all important:

- Businesses with blogs see 2X more email traffic compared to businesses without a blog. (14)
- 74% of web users pay attention to the spelling and grammar on company websites. And 59% would avoid buying from a company that made obvious mistakes in spelling and grammar. (15)
- 47% of buyers see 3-5 different pieces of content before they engage with a sales rep. (16)

“Connect authentically. Write to relate over writing to sell. Show how a service, product, or project creates solutions instead of listing features. People expect quality. Versatility is valued. Innovation is rare. How can your idea impact people in ways that they have yet to imagine?”

Brandon Johnson
Commercial film and literature writer
Fiverr seller since 2015

“Content is king. If you publish content that adds value across your website and social pages, your ideal audience will follow. Before posting content, ask yourself one simple question: “Would my ideal customer or client feel that their time was well spent after watching or reading this?”

Eric Spero
Professional writer
Fiverr seller since 2020

In 2021, you need to focus on all aspects of online content:

Articles & Blog Posts

Writing articles and blog posts allow you to communicate ideas with your customers in-depth — whether it’s to share what your product does or guide your customers through their purchase decisions. Your 2021 strategy should involve publishing blog posts and articles regularly to keep your audience engaged and informed and bring valuable traffic to your site.

Website Content

All of the written words on your website should inform your customers (and the search engines) about your website’s purpose. Who are you, and what do you do? Every word on your website is a powerful opportunity to win over customers. And don’t forget to research and use the right keywords when crafting your copy. This ensures you’re sending the right signals to the search engines, too.

Ask one of Fiverr’s Website Content experts to create compelling, keyword-optimized website content for you.

UX Writing

Written content also plays a critical role in the user experience.

Can your users interact seamlessly with your digital products? Do they know what happens when they tap on a certain button or how to change their requirements within the software/app?

Good UX writing makes all of this possible. Connect with Fiverr’s UX Writing experts to create clear and accessible microcopy for your website or app.

Videos & Video Ads

Video is king across all online platforms. With shrinking attention spans, video has become a highly effective content format to engage your audience. No wonder it’s overtaking blogs and infographics as the most commonly used content marketing formats.¹⁹

Video content has proven to be a powerful method of educating and engaging your audience:

- 87% of video marketers, video has increased website traffic.²⁰
- 95% of video marketers have noticed an increase in user understanding of their product or service as a result of video.²⁰
- 80% of video marketers have also seen a direct increase in sales due to video.²⁰

Video marketing works because today’s social media networks are primarily video-focused. Users are naturally drawn to movement, and video capitalizes on this. It’s important to ensure your videos are professional and consistent with your brand’s style and voice.

Did you know interactive content generates 4X more engagement than non-interactive content? [21]

Step 5: Reach More Customers
Taking your business online is the first step to sustaining your business in 2021. To expand your reach and continue growing your business, it’s important that customers can find your business online. There are several ways to promote your business, but the following five are the most effective at pumping up your online presence: social media marketing; search engine marketing (SEM); search engine optimization (SEO); remarketing, and email marketing. But before you tackle these, start with a smart marketing strategy.

Marketing Strategy

The events of 2020 emphasized the need for businesses to go online. So it makes sense that your digital marketing strategy should be the backbone of your overall marketing strategy. And with a professional marketing strategy in place, you can increase traffic to your website and boost your sales.

Aside from bringing in more revenue, a strong marketing strategy helps you define your target demographic. It helps you invest your time and money in places where you’ll see the best ROI (Return On Investment).

A marketing strategy also ensures every step you make is timely, and it gives you a chance to shape your brand voice and image.

To get started on your plan, hire one of Fiverr’s Marketing Strategy professionals to help you understand the best channels to market your business and the most impactful ways to use them.

“Gathering data based on the specific actions of people is the key to establishing who your audience is. Most marketing platforms offer tools to help you build “lookalike audiences” based on email signups or orders placed on your webshop (online store). Take advantage of tools that analyze millions of customer data points to establish who is the most likely customer to be interested in your product or services.”

Social Media Marketing

Social media marketing is no longer an option for small businesses — it’s a must. The number of users on each platform, and the amount of time they spend there offers unprecedented access to your customer base.

- Almost 50% of the world’s population now uses social media. (27)
- 43% of global social media users research products online through social networks. (27)
- 24% of global social media users discover brands and products through recommendations on social. (27)
- 90% of people say that they buy from companies they follow on social media. (28)
- 75% increase their spending with a brand they follow on social media. (28)

Additionally, you can build trust by solving customer service issues directly and in a personalized manner. And, you can engage with your audience consistently, keeping your brand top of mind and ensuring your company stays relevant. Executing great social media marketing requires a few things:

Create a Content Calendar and Cover All Your Bases

Plan your posts ahead of time to ensure you never scramble for content. Additionally, find the right platform for your business. While Facebook, Instagram, and YouTube are still the most used social networks, it really depends on the audience you’re trying to reach. Other platforms, like LinkedIn, Snapchat, Pinterest, and TikTok could be beneficial to your strategy depending on your audience.

Fiverr’s social media marketing gurus can help you get ahead with impactful social media content.

Use Professional Influencers

When it comes to influencing, businesses tend to focus on celebrities or influencers with large reaches. However, your objective is not to reach as many people as possible but to build trust within your specific niche. This means finding professional micro or nano-influencers who exist within your niche and leveraging their power to engage with others in a specific community. Fiverr’s influencer marketing freelancers can help you build a new fanbase.
Social Media Advertising

To take your social presence to a whole new level, combine your organic social media marketing efforts with paid advertising. Social media advertising gives you a much-needed boost to stand apart from the competition and get noticed by the right audience.

- Social media advertising accounts for 28.6% of all internet advertising revenue. (29)
- Social media campaigns help boost exposure, traffic, lead generation, and customer loyalty. (19)
- Social media content is the most noticed type of brand communication, with 77% of consumers noticing it sometimes, frequently, or always. (41)

The need to run creative and relevant ads on social media is vital to stand out in 2021. Through social media advertising, you can accurately target your audience. For example, platforms like Facebook employ state-of-the-art analytical tools to help you see who’s visiting your site and who’s interacting with your posts. You can use this data to refine your audience and ensure your ads end up in the right feeds.

Fiverr’s Social Media Advertising experts will help you create and manage powerful social media ads, starting with a winning advertising strategy.

SEM (Search Engine Marketing)

SEM involves buying ads on search engines to increase your company’s visibility for specific keywords and phrases. With SEM, you pay only for the most effective traffic. You decide the price, location, and time that will yield the highest amount of traffic with intent to purchase. In turn, this will boost your company’s revenue.

If you include it in your business’ marketing plan, SEM can generate significant exposure for your products or services:

- Paid search traffic generates 32% of total e-commerce sessions. (19)
- 33% of marketers use paid advertising to boost brand awareness. (19)
- Google Display Network manages to reach 90% of global internet users. (19)

SEM helps you work smarter, not harder. Instead of chasing after customers, you’re gaining access to what they’re looking for and ensuring you’re in the right place. You can target a wide audience, tailor your ads to specific search terms and keywords (instead of vague demographic criteria), and you can even make your ads appear in searches for your competitors.

Creating a great SEM plan requires you to be strategic:

Choose the Right Keywords

These keywords should be relevant to your business, localized when possible, and in line with popular searches. Also, be sure to use words that drive high commercial intent (i.e., buy, discount, deal, etc.)

Track Your Results

Measure your click-through rates, and your ad spend and tweak your strategy. You never want to bid high only to receive weak traffic.

Fiverr’s SEM experts can help you get it right the first time.
SEO (Search Engine Optimization)

Search Engine Optimization is just as important as SEM. However, there’s a big difference between the two. With SEO, you use a series of strategies and best practices to increase your website’s organic visibility in search engines instead of buying ads. This is important because:

- Relevant results, which are the outcome of a good SEO strategy, will be shown at the top of the SERP (Search Engine Results Page). Paid results (ads that are purchased as part of a business’ SEM strategy) will show at the top of the page as well (above the organic results).

Not only that, they show up prominently as paid ads in multiple locations throughout the searcher’s journey — sometimes at the bottom of the page or in the middle when a mobile user clicks on “more results.” This makes your listing more likely to get noticed and clicked on.

Thus, SEO provides two major benefits:

- Your content will rank high in search results without paying for traffic.
- Some users consider organic results more reliable because search algorithms try to give them the most accurate results based on their search terms.

One of the most important aspects of SEO is creating highly relevant content for your current and potential customers. Google’s algorithm prioritizes relevance and quality when ranking pages, among many other factors. So when you create relevant and quality content, it improves your chances of ranking higher in search results. But your efforts can't stop there. You also must promote your content and encourage your audience to share and link to it, which sends positive search ranking signals to Google.

And most importantly, clicks from organic results are free! Crafting and executing an SEO plan requires some budget and some time. But with smart planning and ongoing effort, you can increase your chances of earning more prominent search rankings.

Remarketing & Email Marketing

To grow your business online in the long-run, you should combine brand awareness and customer acquisition strategies with effective customer retention tactics. This involves re-engaging people who've interacted with your business in the past and enticing them to continue doing business with you.

When done right, focusing on customer retention can be much more effective than attracting new ones:

- An increase in customer retention of just 5% can increase profits by 25%. [31]
- 60% of loyal customers will make more frequent purchases from their preferred companies. [31]
- Compared to new customers, loyal ones spend 67% more money with a business. [31]

The two most effective ways to retain your customers are using remarketing and email marketing strategies. Email marketing, in particular, opens up a direct line of communication between your brand and your customers. This makes it a critical tool for establishing and nurturing customer relationships.

Remarketing

With remarketing, you target people who’ve interacted with your business before — whether they clicked on one of your ads or visited your website in the past. They may have shown an interest but didn’t make a purchase. This makes sense because only 2% of website visitors convert on their first visit. [32] Instead, you can use remarketing methods to remind them about your brand and entice them to (finally) make that purchase they were considering.

- Retargeting can boost your conversion rates by up to 150%. [32]
- Retargeted visitors have a 70% higher chance of converting compared to visitors who aren’t retargeted. [31]
- Remarketing to shoppers who abandon their carts can increase conversion rates from 8% to 26%. [32]

Email Marketing

Email marketing is another way to engage and retain your existing customers while recapturing lost sales. For instance, you can send out email newsletters every week or month to engage your existing customers with updates. And you can also send out retargeting emails to people who abandon their shopping carts.

Being one of the only direct communication channels with your customers, it also serves as a tool to build and strengthen your brand’s customer relationships.

- For 80% of business professionals, email marketing increases customer retention. [33]
- Successful retargeting emails are responsible for driving 28.3% of all e-commerce revenue. [33]
- Abandoned cart emails have a 4.64% conversion rate. [33]

Keep in mind that your emails need to be attractive, relevant, and personalized. This means you need to focus on email segmentation, personalization, and design to capture the right audience with the right message at the right time.

Digital Marketing
2021 Trends

These emerging trends will influence the 2021 online marketing landscape:

Paid Advertising Revival
With more businesses taking to online marketing, the competition is going to get tougher. And it’ll be extremely difficult to rank in organic searches, especially for new businesses. Paid advertising will become more important than ever to make sure your business stands out. 2020 was already seeing a 6% increase in digital ad spend and this is likely to grow in 2021. [34]

Going Local
In light of the pandemic, people are more enthusiastic than ever to support local businesses. In fact, 75% of consumers say they plan to buy from local merchants as much as possible after COVID-related restrictions are lifted in their areas. [35] So “local” will be at the heart of digital marketing strategies. [36] To keep up with the competition, businesses will work on improving their local SEO rankings with a renewed focus on key local ranking factors, including reviews and Google My Business listings. [37]

Programmatic Advertising
To support the growth of paid advertising, we will see brands relying more and more on programmatic advertising. This involves using an automated bidding system to automate the process of buying and selling ad inventory. So businesses can quickly and easily purchase ad impressions on publisher websites and apps to save time and get ahead of the competition. [38]
